There's Still Time to Enter Your Orchids in the Competitive Classes at the 2014 Flower Show!

There are two more opportunities to enter your orchids in the Competitive Classes of this year's Philadelphia International Flower Show. The next entry day at the Show is Tuesday, March 4th, from 7:00—9:30 a.m. There are four Novice Classes (Phalaenopsis, Cattleya and Alliance, Paphiopedilum, and a class for "any other species or hybrid"). Novice Classes are for anyone who has never won a blue ribbon at the Flower Show. There are also three new classes on Tuesday: any mounted blooming orchid; any non-blooming orchid with interesting foliage; and an orchid terrarium containing at least two types of blooming orchids.

The final entry day is Friday, March 7th, from 7:00—9:30 a.m. The four Novice Classes listed above are repeated on Friday. There are also several other classes available to enter your plants if you are not a Novice.

Why not give it a try this year! Become famous! Thousands of people will see your plants this year at the Show!
